

Name: _____

Date: _____

Prefixes with hyphens

When a prefix ends with the same letter that the base words begins with, a hyphen is normally used. For example, co ends in o and operate starts with o.

Remember: Say the word aloud, then say each letter aloud as you write it e.g. 'co-operate, c ... o ... - ... o ... p ... e ... r ... a ... t ... e'

To co-operate with someone means to work with them.

To co-ordinate an event means to organise it.

To co-author a book means to write it with someone else.

If you co-own something, you share ownership of it with other people.

To re-enter a place means to come back into it.

To re-educate someone means to teach them something again.

To re-examine something means to look at it again.

To re-evaluate something means to think about it again.

To re-energise someone means to increase his or her energy levels.

To re-explain something means to explain it again.

Now test yourself without looking at the words and check for yourself if you got them all right. Practice writing any words that you made mistakes on again.

Name: _____

Date: _____

Prefixes with hyphens

When a prefix ends with the same letter that the base words begins with, a hyphen is normally used. For example, co ends in o and operate starts with o.

Remember: Say the word aloud, then say each letter aloud as you write it e.g. 'co-operate, c ... o ... - ... o ... p ... e ... r ... a ... t ... e'

Try to spell each word without looking at it.

To _____ with someone means to work with them.

To _____ an event means to organise it.

To _____ a book means to write it with someone else.

If you _____ something, you share ownership of it with other people.

To _____ a place means to come back into it.

To _____ someone means to teach them something again.

To _____ something means to look at it again.

To _____ something means to think about it again.

To _____ someone means to increase his or her energy levels.

To _____ something means to explain it again.

Now check for yourself if you got them all right. Practice writing any words that you made mistakes on again.